

Dental Surgeon

Samantha Hamer

BDS London MFDS (RCS Eng)

I qualified from Guy's, King's and St Thomas' Dental Institute (King's College London) in 2002. Having worked in hospital dentistry and general practice, I now work in general practice with a special interest in root canal treatment at Ware Dental Care and have been at the practice since 2010.

Post-graduate education is an important aspect of maintaining skills and providing the best treatment for patients. I have gained further qualifications including membership of the Royal College of Surgeons of England and am currently nearing completion of a Masters degree in root canal treatment (MSc Endodontics). I now undertake more complex root treatments, including re-treating teeth that have had treatment previously.

I practice preventative and minimally invasive dentistry and enjoy helping my patients to maintain a healthy mouth for life. I am a family dentist and see patients of all ages. I understand how worried some patients might be about having dental treatment, but by working together, we can find the right treatment options for you and help you to achieve the best possible results.
